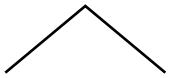
The measured sample contains forty two stable particles.

The repeated reference has the same exact wording.


This earlier passage does not occur in the revised document.